

Garry Niemeyer
NCGA Corn Board Member

Garry Niemeyer serves as a member of the Corn Board of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), a producer-directed trade association headquartered in St. Louis, with a second office in Washington, D.C.

Garry and his wife, Cheryl, farm corn and soybeans in Auburn, Ill. Garry has been a farmer for 35 years and has been a member of NCGA since 1995. On the national level, Garry is the Corn Board liaison to NCGA's Joint Trade Policy A-Team. Garry has served as a member of the Ethanol Committee and the Production and Stewardship Action Team and as the organization's liaison to the Food and Agricultural Exporters Alliance.

Garry served as president of the Illinois Corn Growers Association in 2002 and as vice president in 2001. In 2000, he chaired the Illinois Corn Growers Association Legislative Team. Garry has been involved in public relations and market development at the state and national levels.

Garry received a Bachelor of Science degree in agricultural economics from the University of Illinois. He and his wife have three children, Angela, Stephanie and Timothy.

Founded in 1957, the National Corn Growers Association represents approximately 36,000 dues-paying corn growers and the interests of more than 300,000 farmers who contribute through corn checkoff programs in their states. NCGA and its 48 affiliated state associations and checkoff organizations work together to help protect and advance corn growers' interests.
